

Do you have a child 18 to 33 months old with autism spectrum disorder?

Researchers at Kennedy Krieger Institute are studying whether there are differences between in-person and virtually delivered social communication intervention for toddlers with autism spectrum disorder.

This research study includes:

- Questionnaires about your child and you
- Developmental assessments
- Random assignment to either virtual or in-person intervention sessions
- No significant risks associated with participation

If eligible, families will receive:

- Intervention for 12 weeks
- Information about your child's development
- $50 after study completion
